At the opening of business on onday we had news of a panic on the London Stock change greater in severity than had been experienced in the years, as also on the Paris and Frankfort d advanced its rate to seven per cent, five-twenties at declined to 67% and consols to 86% a %, while all her securities, foreign and domestic, with a single expetion, were similarly depressed. Notwithstanding all is government gold-bearing securities in this market mained nearly steady, and the only direct effect of the vices was to advance gold to 130% and the rates of change on Europe about % per cent. The subquent foreign news has been hardly more corable, and the gold premium would unutedly have continued rising but for sales of con180% by the Sub Treasury, the aggregate amount dissed of by it during the week being estimated at tenillions.

there can be but one opinion. Should the Euro-news fail to exert a favorable influence upon our large and steady drain of gold from ountry, and the export demand will be ed by the low price at which the Treasury ing to sell it. The government can nt circumstances hold the premium in check, e it has still forty millions of coin left, after pro-for the whole of the May coupons; but with exof specie at the rate of nearly nine millions a week, ong could the Treasury retain control of the mar-Yeanwhile, by keeping the price low, in the face heavy foreign demand, it encourages larger exother hand, should the German difficulty with a pacific solution and Europe subside its ordinary tranquility no harm will have been done these Treasury sales of gold apart from the violation a principle. But the danger which the practice of the nent thus indiscreetly assuming control of a hich may pass beyond its control involves should adiness; but to insure steadiness for a week or a we must not voluntarily incur the risk of ing it go much higher afterwards than it otherwise ld go, thus disturbing values and provoking the evils was our intention to guard against.

As a natural consequence of these sales and the dis-nents on account of the five-twenty May coupons, upply of coin for delivery had been equal to the demand and loans have generally been made without in-terest. The range of the market during the current onth has thus far been from 125% to 130%, and since the commencement of the year thus:-

The money market continues to show extreme case although towards the close of the week there were fewer transactions at four per cent than heretofore, in consequence of the absorption of currency by the Sub-Treasury on account of the gold sold by it. The demand for loans was, however, freely met at 5 per cent upon railway and miscellaneous collaterals, and 4 a 4½ on governments, while first class commercial paper was in fair request at 5 a 6 per cent. The balance in the sub-Treasury at the close of business on Saturday was $103,051,222. Compound interest notes, into which idle capital with the banks has floated largely, were thus quoted at the end of the week:—June, 1864, 112; July, do., 111½; August, do., 111; October, do., 110; December, do., 104; October, do., 105; Sepber, do., 104½; October, do., 104. ons at four per cent than heretofore, in conse

Exchange on England was firm on Saturday at 109% a % for bankers' bills at sixty days. The return of about ton millions of old five-twenties from Europe during the month, combined with other causes, contributed to the firmness of the market. Moreover, remittances of the May interest on more than three hundred millions of live-twenties held abroad are being made; and, considering the disturbed state of affairs in Europe, it was hardly surprising that the shipment of gold to Europe test week should have aggregated the large sum of $3,763,205. The expurits of cotton from all the portasts week were about therty thousand bales; while the receipts ward only about twenty thousand. In this market the receipts were 3,330 for the speek ending on Friday evening, and the exports from the port for the week ending the 16th inst. 6,253 bales. The total stock at all the ports is estimated at 418,000 bales, of which Mobile held on the 12th 43,808 bales; Savannah, on the 11th, 15,454 bales; New Orleans, on the 12th, 157,319 bales, and Charleston, on the 11th, 5,838 bales. The stock in England and on the continent of Europe, on the 4th inst., was estimated at 1,730 th bales. The market for the staple here shows continent of Europe, on the 4th inst., was estimated at 1,739,115 bales. The market for the staple here shows firmness, notwithstanding depressing influences, including an abundant supply abread.

The general merchandise markets are devoid of specu-lative activity, and prices are therefore only steady. In the dry goods trade there is, however, growing improve-ment, arising mainly from the firmness of the market for raw cotton, which is parity supported by the prospect of a fight crops.

Total (less $150,000, cancelled) $274,653,105.

The Boston Traveller of last evening says:—
The supply of money is still very abundant and much larger than is required for the ordinary purposes of business. The banks and it difficult to use their balances to advantage, but still they are not inclined to lend on long time, for the reason, probably, that a large part of the loose funds does not bolong to them, but to their depositors. Loans on call are easily obtained by borrowers on approved collaterals at six preent, and on the public securities at five. The taking of the new loan, whenever it occurs, may possibly releve the market of a portion of this plethora, but unless the money paid to the Treasury Department should be withdrawn from circulation whatever change may arise will, in the nature of things, be only temporary.

The discount market would no doubt be more active, if there was enough good commercial paper for sale to make it so, but at present there is very little doing. Endorsed notes of the first class are in demand, and a few are occasionally negotiated at about seven per cent, while very fair names go at eight and nine, but the lower grades are rather unsalable. United States securities take the place of private obligations, and make a very salisfactory a batture. The dealings in them at the stock offices are quite animated, and the transactions are very outcreaive, in the agrregate. All the bonds that are likely to come ba k from Europe will no doubt meet ready buyers at fair prices.

The general share market is rather active than otherwise, but not quite so buoyant as it was two years ago under the same inflation of the paper currency which still prevails throughout the country. With a few unimportant exceptions, prices are considerably lower now than they were then. There is a steady rotali demand for most of the local securities of the dividend paying class, such as bank, insurance, factory and railroad shares and railroad bonda, and recent prices are well maintained for the most of them.

Exchange is working easier West. The Ch.cago Tribune of Friday reports:

The market for Eastern exchance is flat and lower. To-day some of the banks sold round lots at a discount of flity cents per thousand, but the bulk of the sales were at par. Counter rates ranged from 1-10 discount to par buying, and 1-20 a 1-10 premium selling.

The Cincinnati Commercial of Friday says:

Exchange was in the main found to be a little easier, not because of any better supply, but because of a diminished demand. Shipments of currency, however, are still necessary.

The Freedmen's Bureau from a Radical Standpoint.

[From the Philadelphia North Americae (Rep.]]

In North Carolina the developments were somewhat singular. There the agents of the Department were found to be interested in working plantations, using the freedmen for the purpose, and supporting them with government rations, and commission: specify instances in proof. As Generals Stedman and Fullerton could have had no prejudices against these men (the Freedmen's Bureau officers in Virgin's and North Carolina), and are generally respected as honorable officers, we are bound to accept their statement as reliable. Captain & Whittlesey and the Rev. Horse James, officers of the Bureau, work a large farm in Pitz county. Captain F A Seeley, another agent, works a plantation is Wayne county, and Captain J Rosecrans, Commissary of Subsistence, has an interest in a Pitt county plantation. All these men take the freedmen who are in their charact to work their plantations, applying them with government rations and clothing. A settl mest of four thousand persons, opposite Newbern, is the scene of deplorable misery and want, and the agent in charge of it—Rev. Mr. Fitz—is changed with being arbitrary, despoted and cruel. He levied a tax on each but for ground rent, which in the agregate women who are commissioner seemed disposed to sheids him. A freedman who stole provisions from this fellow was shot and killed while attempting to escape from performing the pensity inflicted on him of diaging on Seeley's plantation. Practically these poor blacks seem to be bondesse to the agents of the bureau. A sase is mentioned of a subagent, named Wickersham, who cultivates a plantation near Wimington, and makes the freedmen work on it, punishing recreasis with the ball and clasm.

But it is unnecessary to multiply these instances. The revident has promptly interfered. The commissioners having recommanded the absolution of ali

Boundaries and Art—Grav's Orma Company.—Grav's Opera company have been heard in New York, and they are mighty, though youthful, and will prevail. It is very difficult to obtain theroughly just reports of mentionl and dramatic affairs here, because of the corrupt influences at work. Many of the orition are need largely by the managers to deceive the public. When Elim Betoman appeared the most extravagant praison streamed her performances, but no one could deale that, as shown over praised, a reaction would take piece. The number of the could be the performances of the could be performed to the could be considered to the consid and sudden." It probably was, but the fact that the receipts of the theatre have declined at a fearful rate is not the less true. Grav's company is fresh, carnest and ambitious. The voices are excellent and the ensemble complete. A strong attempt was made, by indifference, to crush them; but that has failed, and the consequence will be a very brilliant season. The artists are far superior, as a whole, to those we have been accustomed to hear during the winter.—Now York Correspondence of Louisville (Ky.) Courter.

Satiments of an Anti-Woman's Rights

I was not a little surprised or reading an address delivered by a lady entitled Mrs. Stanton, in which she gives expression to some of her ablect arguments in behalf or woman's rights. Judging from such I would consider that lady well read and fully posted in history and romance, and, in point of competency, the fair sex could scarcely procure a lady better adapted for the vindication of their so-called rights. But when I look and weigh her arguments I pity while I censure. Pity, because so much talent is devoted to an object that, devoid of even common sense, can never be attained. Now, in this age of onlightenment and civilization, to imagine us American men will succumb to be ruled and bridled by the female portion of oir community! Are we so blind as not to see the absurdity and ridiculousness of the ideas she wishes to promutigate? The ideas Mrs. S. presents are, as she considers, the rights of woman. She does not sak this sa a favor, but as a right. That lady would have her sex sonators, lawyors, doctors and policemen, with stars on their forebeads and sceptres in their hands. The word club would be too strong an expression, so Mrs. S. thinks, and therefore substitutening when reading the report to your peaper; but the reality was there. Oh, sensible ladies, intelled in your hands. Imagine yourselves after the property of the service and forsake their will ways. you men, who are a favor, but and the reality was there. Oh, sensible ladies, trying to persuade those fallen angels to retraditing, trying to persuade those fallen angels to retraditing, trying to persuade those fallen angels to retraditing, trying to persuade those fallen angels to retraditing trying to persuade those fallen angels to the task be revolving sim discussible and the words of Victor Hugo:—"As the debris of severs have been found to prosses those chemical qualities that dan alone restore the words of process the eventual process."
